It is said that the St. Louis Field Club has secured the services of James Ogelvie, late of St. Andrews, Scotland, as professional goif instructor for next season. Ogelvie—which the Scotchmen hereabout pronounce Ogg-elvy—is at present engaged at Augusta. Ga. Hs is a young man, has an excellent style, and plays a good game, so it is said, though he himself urges that he is not anxious to shine as a player, being perfectly content with the position, emoluments and rewards of a clubmaker and instructor. It is rather a pity that neither Foulis, the new Gen Echo professional, or Ogelvie has playing ambitions. Golfers had hoped to see some one come along and trim Simpson, the Country Club crack, who has championship aspirations. Singularly, too, prior to the advent of Simpson to St. Louis, most of the local professionals were first-class players, to hear them tell it. When Simpson turned up they all became good clubmakers and high-class instructors, without any ambition in the playing line other than that which coxes out under the combined influences of plenty of shade and a good high bail or two. Two Women Go to Law Over a Wealthy Tea Dealer Who Is a Church Treasurer.

BIG DAMAGE SUITS BEGUN.

His Wife Sues for Alienation; the Other Woman to Ask $100,-000 for Breach of Promise.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, March 8.-Magistrate Kramer, in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Williams burg, to-day, sent the case of Mrs. Belle Devlin, a widow, charged with assaulting Mrs. Elizabeth Hill, wife of Benjamin Hill, a wealthy tea dealer and treasurer of a Methodist Church, who lives at No. 213 Grand street, Williamsburg, to the Court of Special Sessions.

On leaving the court, Mrs. Devlin was served by Mrs. Hill's attorneys with papers in a suit for $50,000 damages for alienating the affections of Mr. Hill. Mrs. Devlin's attorney accepted the papers, saying his client would institute a suit for $100,000 against the tea dealer for breach of Mr. Hill's illness prevented his attendance in court to-day. He has been ill for nearly seven weeks, and it was while Mrs. Devlin was trying to see him a week ago that she had an encounter with Mrs. Hill, which resulted in Mrs. Devlin's arrest.

Testimony Shocks Church People.

Many persons prominent in the social and church life of Williamsburg were at the hearing. Half a dozen fashionably at tired women, members of the South Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Mr. Hill is treasurer, crowded about Mrs. Hill and assured her of their sympathy. She was represented by Isaac church folk seemed to be shocked at the recital.

Mrs. Hill testified that she was married to Mr. Hill twenty-three years ago, and first saw Mrs. Devlin four weeks ago, when she called at the tea store and asked about Mr. Hill's illness.

"Mrs. Devlin called at my home a week ago," continued Mrs. Hill, "and tried to force her way into my husband's bedroom. I prevented her and she struck me. I called for the police and Mrs. Devlin's arrest followed."

Mrs. Devlin was called. Straightening herself in the witness chair, she said:

"It was in 1894 that I first met Mr. Hill.

"It was in 1894 that I first met Mr. Hill.
I was separated from my husband at the time. Mr. Hill told me he was divorced.
At his request I went to Chicago in 1897 to institute divorce proceedings against my husband, Mr. Hill defraying the expense.
While the proceedings were pending Mr.
Hill visited me several times. I obtained the divorce, and Mr. Hill accompanied me and my youngest daughter East. He told me after I obtained the divorce that I was his affianced. My husband later died in Boston."

Mre. Devlin exhibited a diamond ring

Mrs. Devilin exhibited a diamond ring and a watch, which she said Mr. Hill gave her in 1897. She said he told her he did not like the name Benjamin, and asked her to call him "Cliff." He gave her $800 on January 2, last, she asserted.

The witness said that about a month ago the Reverend Doctor R. G. Pardington, pastor of the church of which Mr. Hill is treasurer, visited, her. He was accompanied by Police Captain-Short. They told her, she averred, that: Mr. Hill was married, and ordered her to have nothing further to do with him. It was to investigate their statements that she visited Mr. Hill's home.

INDORSES JOSEPH FLORY.

Railway Club Favors . Him for World's Fair Commissioner.

The St. Louis Railway Club, which now has nearly 2,500 members, held its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in the main parlor at the Southern Hotel. The attendance was unusually large, embracing representatives from the traffic and operating department of all the lines centering at St. Louis, as well as railway supply men from St. Louis and neighboring eities.

After the regular programme of the meeting had been disposed of, an account of which will be found in the railroad columns, Mr. E. C. Marshall offered a resolution, which was read by Secretary E. A. Chenery. It recited the fact that Joseph Flory, a prominent member of the club, was as applicant for the position of Commissioner of the St. Louis World's Fair of 1903; that he was a distinguished citizen of Missouri and had been the candidate of the Republican party for Governor of the State at the recent election; that he was capable in every way of fulfilling the duties of a Commissioner for the best interests of the Government as yell as for those of the St. Louis World's Fair, and that therefore it was the duty of the club to indorse his application for the position and ask President McKiniey to appoint him.

The motion was seconded, and upon being put to a vote by President John J. Bauleh was unanimously adopted.

On motion President Baulch was then instructed to wire President McKiniey at once and notify him of the action taken by the club. This Mr. Baulch did as soon as an adjournment was taken. The members were hopeful that this emphatic indorsement would materially aid is procuring for Mr. Flory one of the commissionerships. World's Fair Commissioner.
